1969
Macallan

Specially selected from the ancient whisky archives at Duncan Taylor, this incredibly rare whisky was distilled at the renowned Macallan Distillery, in the heart of the Highlands of Scotland. Since 1824 Macallan have been demonstrating the excellence of spirit and cask to craft stunning whiskies which are celebrated around the world.

Tasting Notes

Colour - Polished bronze.

Nose - Rich, dark chocolate with notes of overripe orange peel shining through. Hints of cinnamon and dusty spices, with a touch of aniseed, sweet wood and creamy vanilla.

Palate - Rich, toffee and demerara sugar bound into caramel biscuits. Fruitiness is more subdued and more reminiscent of underripe fruits, perfectly balanced, with a little spice on the front of the tongue.

Finish - Cask 8376 was in an ex bourbon cask from 10th Sept 1969 through to 22nd December 2016 (47 years,) and from then until bottling on 27th July 2022 in an ex Oloroso first fill sherry, so around 6 years in sherry. A bit more than just a finish!
